Communicating Air Quality

A Compendium of Resources

August 1997

Acknowledgments

On behalf of the State and Territorial Air Pollution Program Administrators (STAPPA) and the Association of Local Air Pollution Control Officials (ALAPCO), we are pleased to provide Communicating Air Quality: A Compendium of Resources.

STAPPA and ALAPCO wish to thank Greg Green (OR) and Charlie Lagges (Cook County, IL), Chairs of the STAPPA and ALAPCO Public Education and Communications Committee, respectively, under whose guidance this document was prepared, as well as members of STAPPA and ALAPCO who took part in the preparation and review of this document, for their diligent and valuable contributions.

We also greatly appreciate the assistance of Gail Lewkowicz, Staff Associate, of STAPPA/ALAPCO, who helped develop the catalogue, oversee the project and edit the document.

We believe that Communicating Air Quality: A Compendium of Resources will serve as a useful and important reference document and thank all those who contributed to its development.

About STAPPA and ALAPCO

The State and Territorial Air Pollution Program Administrators and the Association of Local Air Pollution Control Officials are the national associations representing state and local air quality officials in the states and territories and over 165 major metropolitan areas throughout the country. The members of STAPPA and ALAPCO have primary responsibility for implementing our nation's air pollution control laws and regulations. The associations serve to encourage the exchange of information and experience among air pollution control officials; enhance communication and cooperation among federal, state and local regulatory agencies; and facilitate air pollution control activities that will result in clean, healthful air across the country. STAPPA and ALAPCO share joint headquarters in Washington, DC.

For further information, contact STAPPA and ALAPCO at 444 North Capitol Street, NW, Suite 307, Washington, DC 20001 (telephone: 202/624-7864; fax: 202/624-7863; e-mail: 4clnair@sso.org).

Introduction

This document compiles in one place a listing of the public education and outreach materials that state, local and federal air agencies have created. From posters to videos to fact sheets to articles, this resource catalogue will guide public information officials, and other state and local air agency staff, in locating the public outreach tools needed to educate the public on a variety of clean air issues. Moreover, by facilitating information exchange, Communicating Air Quality: A Compendium of Resources will enhance the national coordination of public outreach and education efforts. Such coordination will prevent the duplication of public education materials, thereby yielding long-term benefits in savings. It is now possible to quickly find and easily obtain public education materials from other air agencies through this “one-stop-shopping resource.” The exchange and flow of public education materials between air officials from around the country is an important step towards fulfilling government’s duty to inform the public about air quality, regulatory actions to control air pollution and what citizens can do to prevent air pollution.

Since the information contained in Communicating Air Quality: A Compendium of Resources is time-sensitive, the document will be republished on a bi-annual basis. Additionally, the catalogue will be continuously updated in electronic format and posted on the associations’ web site at <http://www.4cleanair.org>. The chapters in this document are sorted alphabetically according to major areas under the Clean Air Act. Within each chapter, the materials cited are listed alphabetically by state and then by city within each state.

If you have any questions regarding Communicating Air Quality: A Compendium of Resources, please contact Gail Lewkowicz of STAPPA/ALAPCO at (202) 624-7864.
